thank you to reviewers

A Tribute to the Team

Although our team includes authors, readers, and publishers, the list below focuses on our team of peers. These are the board members (who also serve as reviewers) and our reviewers. This group of professionals spend untold hours reviewing original submissions, offering suggestions for improvement, evaluating author resubmissions, and recommending decisions. Typically, a team of reviewers for any given manuscript may offer global suggestions (e.g., redirect the focus), specific suggestions (e.g., reword a sentence), and line-by-line suggestions. The team always offers great ideas to reflect trends in continuing education, and this effort reminds me of the best examples of shared governance. We have the opportunity to influence what appears in the journal and to influence new and established authors. Every member of this team is invaluable. Thank you—from our authors, our readers, our publisher, and me. Here’s to another great year! You are incredible!
